

COAT collars that stand off at the back of the neck or coat collars so short that they bind are very common to much so-called "best" clothing—in fact, many people never know what it is to have the RIGHT thing.

We should like to show you how much style may be had from a perfect balance of line and proportion that enables the collar to lie close to the neck—and yet be perfectly comfortable.

WILLIAM A. SHAW ROBBED.

A Thief of Light Weight Knew Just Where the Jewelry Was Kept.

ORANGE, N. J., April 29.—A burglar, whose work bore many of the characteristics of that done by the man who robbed the jewel chest of James B. Dill in East Orange recently, visited the home of William A. Shaw, on Reynolds Terrace, Orange, last night. He climbed up the post of a portico, entered Mrs. Shaw's bedroom, opened the top drawer of her dresser and took the jewelry it contained. No other place was disturbed.

In his ascent of the post he appears to have rested his weight on a series of screw eyes set in the post for the purpose of holding vines. These barely bent under his weight. Had he been a heavy man they would have broken off. The list of the articles stolen is as follows:

Solitaire diamond ring, marked "W. A. S. to L. V. B.," valued at $200; solitaire diamond ring, value $20; ring set with two pearls and one diamond, value $700; ring set with two large diamonds, $400; crescent sapphire set with seven diamonds and three rubies, value $450; ring set with two pearls, $50; bar pin set with eleven pearls, $100; Louis's gold watch and chain, marked "Louis A. Blivin, $100; man's gold watch chain and cameo locket, value $20; gold thimble, marked "L. R. S.," value $10; D. A. R. pin No. 12,852, value $12.

In addition to these pieces of jewelry there was taken a pin about which Mr. and Mrs. Shaw express the greatest concern. It is a diamond and ruby star of the Thirteenth New Jersey Regiment, of which Gov. Murphy was a member, and was given by him to Mrs. Shaw's brother, who is now dead. The jewels with which it is set make it extremely valuable.

SENTENCE TO DEATH CHAIR.

Edward Sexton Convicted of the Murder of Thomas Mahoney.

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., April 29.—Edward Sexton, on trial here the last four days for the murder of Thomas Mahoney in the town of Farmington, June 29, 1893, was found guilty of murder in the first degree to-day after the jury had deliberated seven and one-half hours. Judge Dunwell, after denying the motion of defendant's attorneys for a new trial and for stay of judgment, sentenced Sexton to suffer the death penalty at Auburn State prison the week of June 4.

Thomas Mahoney, who lived about ten miles from here, near the Wayne county line, was planting beans in his back lot that adjoined Sexton's property. He was shot from ambush with a shotgun which nearly blew away the left side of his head. Sexton had threatened for years to kill Mahoney, blaming him for his (Sexton's) wife's alleged unfaithfulness.

Joseph H. Headley Taken to Court.

Joseph H. Headley left a sickbed yesterday, according to his counsel, Jesse S. L'Amoreaux, to appear before Supreme Court Justice Gleicher and be examined in the suit of some judgment creditors against Cyrus Field Judson, who was associated with Headley and Joseph Lester in the pool in International Power stock. An appeal had been taken from the order directing Headley to appear. The examination was adjourned to May 10.

THE CARTRIDGES WERE O. K.

Kerr Fires a Revolver in the Street to Test "Em and Got Two Months.

James Kerr of 429 West Fortieth street was in the West Side court yesterday afternoon charged with firing a pistol in the street. He had discharged two shots while walking along Thirty-first street near Eighth avenue.

"It was this way, your Honor," said Kerr. "A friend wanted me to get some cartridges for him, and I took the pistol along in order to get them properly fitted."

He didn't know if the ammunition was good, and as the street seemed quiet enough I shot the gun to see if the cartridges would explode."

President Finley Judge of a Debate.

President John H. Finley will be one of the judges to-night at the sixty-eighth semi-annual debate of the Ciceronian and Phreocorian societies of the College of the City of New York, which will be held at the hall of the Board of Education. The subject will be, "Resolved, that the United States Government was not warranted in recognizing the independence of Panama."

Mrs. Berwind Gets Her Dresses for $605.

The two trunks full of feminine finery seized by the customs officers from Mrs. C. F. Berwind of Philadelphia last February, when she neglected to declare them on her arrival from Europe, were sold at auction by Marshal Henkel yesterday for $605. The buyer was H. R. Shultz of Philadelphia, who would not deny that he bought them for the Berwinds.

New Spring SCARFS for Men

These new light-weight Scarfs are made of handsome block-printed Foulard Silks. The grounds are in gray, tan and brown, with neat, irregular patterns in white. They are made in the smart French four-in-hand shape, which will tie well with any style collar.

They will just hit young men who like something smart, new and easy to tie—at a popular price. 50c each. Broadway and Ninth street.

Men's Shirts of Imported Madras $1.50

These Negligee Shirts are made from the best Scotch madras—in white, and with colored stripes—the quality and the patterns used by most custom shirtmakers, for shirts that you pay double for. The style, the fit and the finish of these shirts distinctly excel any other shirts at the price, on the market. They are made with plain bosoms and detachable cuffs. $1.50 each. Broadway and Ninth street.

Men's $3.50 and $5 Derby Hats at $2

There are still ample quantities of these fine sample hats, for the men who get here promptly this morning. They are the product of the best hat factory in the country. The various different blocks are included. Most of the hats are black; though there are browns also. All regular sizes. At $2 each, instead of $3.50 and $5. Men's Hat Store, Second floor, Ninth st.

A Remarkable Story of Silk Umbrellas

A startling reduction concerns Women's Umbrellas of the finest silk, with handles of solid rock-crystal. Cut into the center of each clear, shining globe is an exquisite design of flowers or animals, colored and backed with mother-of-pearl. Gold-mounted.

Beautiful gift umbrellas. Their normal prices are $30 to $50—they were marked so until today. But the demand for umbrellas of so rare and delicate a nature is naturally slight; and we don't like things to move slowly. Therefore, today, it's worth your while to humor us—

$30 to $50 Umbrellas at $10 Each

Only eight of them.

And more usual sorts—that is our usual dependable, stylish, handsome sorts, to stand all kinds of weather—at these poignant price-reductions:

At $5, were $7 to $10—Umbrellas, for men and women; all of very fine silk. The women's have long silver, pearl-and-silver and ivory handles; the men's are ivory, horn and natural wood silver-trimmed.

At $3.75, were $5—Women's all-silk Umbrellas, with an excellent assortment of fancy handles.

At $2.90, were $3.75—Women's all-silk Umbrellas, less elaborate fancy handles. Broadway.
